What about plantain crisps?

What is a plantain?

Although it looks like a banana you can't eat it raw! Plantains are good for you as they're low in fat and sodium with no cholesterol. They're also high in carbohydrates and a great source of potassium, magnesium, fiber, and vitamin C.

Thin slices of plantain that are deep fried and sprinkled with salt (or other flavours). Making them tastier and more versatile than your standard crisps!

Bulk Sale

Whether you are looking for a zero-waste alternative for your shop or your own business idea we can help by providing plantain crisps wholesale

We are passionate about healthy food & doing things differently.

We are based in the UK and with the help from our brand ambassador Pepe, the parrot, we have found a tastier & healthier alternative to potato crisps, that we brought from our home-country Colombia.

A fun, exotic and colourful brand that gets everyone excited to try something different!
